

EXERCISE 10-3 Needed words Before working this exercise, read section 10 in Rules for Writers, Fifth Edition.

Missing words make some of the following sentences ambiguous. Add the needed words so that only one meaning is possible. If a sentence is clear as written, mark it "OK." Example:

Mary Wollstonecraft approved of the French Revolution more than Edmund Burke^{did.}

1. Wollstonecraft blamed women's problems on the structure of society more than the men of her time.
2. Her ideas about women frightened other people less than her husband.
3. One of her daughters, Mary Shelley, who wrote Frankenstein, became as famous as Wollstonecraft herself.
4. The readers Mary Shelley attracted were different from those who enjoyed her mother's work.
5. Modern readers know Mary Shelley better than Mary Wollstonecraft.
