

EXERCISE 14-2 Emphasis Before working this exercise, read section 14 in Rules for Writers, Fifth Edition.

Combine or restructure the following sentences so that the independent clause expresses the idea in brackets and everything else is subordinated. Example:

who owned an electrochemical factory, Albert Einstein's father, Hermann Einstein, had some interest in science. ~~He owned an~~ electrochemical factory. [^] [Emphasize his father's interest in science.]

1. Hermann Einstein moved his electrochemical business to Munich; the move made it possible for his son to have the best schooling available. [Emphasize the fact that Hermann moved his business.]
2. Albert Einstein's Uncle Jake explained math to the boy and made algebra problems into games. [Emphasize Uncle Jake's making games out of the problems.]
3. Albert's mother was impressed by her son's persistent questions and secretly hoped that Albert would one day be a professor. [Emphasize the mother's hope.]
4. One of Albert's friends was a medical student at the University of Munich. This friend supplied Albert with well-written modern books on natural science. [Emphasize that the friend supplied Einstein with books.]
5. Hermann Einstein kept his business in Munich for several years, and afterward he decided to go to Italy and work with relatives. [Emphasize the decision to go to Italy and work with relatives.]